PINK: You don't have to be dumb to be cute

Pink is back! And this time she has a mission. To give girls better role models and better ambitions. "There's more to life than hair, shops and shoes..."she says.

Pink's first song from her new CD I'm not dead gets straight to the point. Stupid girls makes fun of Hollywood celebrity culture: girls who love fake tans, who carry tiny dogs in bags, and whose only hobbies are shopping and dieting. Who are "the stupid girls"? "I don't need to name names" says Pink. But we can. She means Lindsey Lohan, Paris Hilton and Jessica Simpson. Pink think celebrity culture is pushing women back 100 years. "What happened to the dream of a girl President" she asks in her song Is she right? The British newspaper The Sunday Times recently asked girls in the UK aged 13 to 19 what career they would like: 63% wanted to be a fashion model, 25% chose dancing, but only 4% said they wanted to be a lawyer and only 3% wanted to be a doctor!

Pink blames the media for this, and most of us agree. A questionnaire found that 83% of people think there are too many celebrities in the media. Pink likes smart women and thinks girls need better role models. She says you can be glamorous AND clever. "You don't have to be dumb to be cute."
